

THE INDIANA FORESTER

VOL. 31 NO. 2

April 1, 2011

Comments from the Chair

Boy, it has seemed like a long winter. I normally enjoy those few days in December or January where we get 50 degree weather; it never came this year. As I write this, the kids are playing outside without coats and we finally are enjoying spring-like days. Planting season is around the corner...

The winter meeting on March 9-10 at Jasper was a smashing success. By holding our meeting in conjunction with the Indiana Association of Consulting Foresters, we had over 60 individuals attend one or both of the days. Many thanks to Mike Warner, the current IACF president, for making this possible.

The meeting started with a presentation by Ron Rathfon regarding the Southern Indiana Cooperative Weed Management Area. Ron outlined the efforts of CWMA's in the Midwest, detailed the draft Best Management Practices for invasive species, and highlighted three invasive plant species not currently recorded, but to "watch out for." Ron is actively looking for weed watchers and expert verifiers to help in the southern part of state; contact him if you are interested. After all, the more eyes and bodies involved, the better the CWMA will function and the less work it is for any one individual!

Next, we moved into hardwood silviculture with two presentations by Purdue graduate students. Andrew Meier gave an interesting talk on epicormic branching, outlining the many factors influencing their formation. Research is scant in this area, but it appears that genetics, site factors, tree health, and crown vigor all contribute. These factors all need to be considered when pruning, thinning, or in other treatments that directly change light environments within a stand. Next, Rob Morrissey discussed crop tree release in Central Hardwood stands. Through a simulation study using the Forest Vegetation Simulator, he was able to show that crop tree release in 20-35 year stands can provide a 6-10% return on investment after 30 years.

After an enjoyable evening dinner and "thumping" in the biannual stump hole tournament (won by "hot-handed" Dan<sup>2</sup> – Dan Shaver and Dan McGuckin), we started the next day on the topic of taxes. Dr. Bill Hoover of Purdue lectured on tax law and tax basis calculations, repeatedly warning everyone that the proper procedure or answer is ever evolving based on changes in legislation and court cases. Dr. Ralph Johnson of Purdue reviewed inventory methods appropriate for quickly estimating volume and value for tax basis calculations or other purposes; he referenced several USFS tutorials on statistics and sampling design, which I believe are available at <http://www.fs.fed.us/fmssc/measure/training/index.shtml>. Dr. Carl Mize, retired from Iowa State University, ended the morning with an overview of Indiana TIGER, several programs that you can use for woodlot management and tax basis estimation.

After lunch, we ended the meeting with a lively panel discussing how to interest middle and high school students in careers in natural resource management. Donna Rogler – Project Learning Tree Coordinator, Joe Ramey – Horticulture Instructor, Central Nine Career Center, Sean Jochum – Director of Guidance from Jasper High School, Bryan Uebelhor – Guidance Counselor from Southridge High School, and Anna Byer and Craig Reckelhoff – Purdue Forestry undergraduates all took part. Both Sean and Bryan made it very clear that the forestry message is not being heard by students or parents, largely because they do not have good materials to convey that message. They suggested that we all strive to be active at our local schools by either getting in front of the students through career days, organizing forestry clubs at a school, or letting high school students job shadow. Introduce yourself to your local high school guidance counselor!

I want to again thank all the speakers and especially Janet Gosewehr and Liz Jackson who both helped me organize and conduct the meeting. Until July, happy planting!

–Mike Saunders

A LITTLE HUMOR

A number of years back when I was a graduate student at the University of Maine, I had a good friend of mine get a forestry job in Florida. Keith Kanoti, my office mate at the time, and I wrote a Jeff Foxworthy-inspired piece for him entitled "You know you might be a Florida forester if." Well wouldn't you know, about two months after I arrived at Purdue...

You know you might be an Indiana Forester if: by Keith Kanoti

1. You have ever done a stump cruise on a front lawn (damn black walnut rustlers).
2. The only growth and yield models you can find are for corn.
3. You think a "softwood" is anything other than an oak or hickory.
4. You think slope distance is how far you have to drive to go skiing.
5. You wonder what all those numbers between N, S, E, and W on your compass are for.
6. You think 10 foot deep soil is "pretty shallow."
7. Instead of drawing property boundaries on your stand maps you just cut the paper into a square.
8. Your stand and stock tables have a column for poison ivy board foot volume.

9. You have administered a timber sale for a single tree.
10. You have trouble convincing forestry extension staff that trees can be used for other purposes than wind breaks.

This has been hanging on my door ever since. Happy April Fools!
 –Mike Saunders

FORESTERS FUND

At the recent ISAF Winter meeting in Jasper, a total of $230 was raised for the Foresters' Fund through the generosity of ISAF members. The silent auction raised about $140 while donations from Dr. Walt Beineke from the sale of his book raised another $20, and some great chocolate from Jayson Waterman brought in another $20. The remainder of the funds came from 19 players in the Stump Hole Tournament (after the winners' pot was allocated.) Thanks to everyone for helping!

TSI FUND RAISER

A hardy band of ISAF members wielded chainsaws and Tordon, and completed all but about 10 acres of the TSI project in eastern Indiana recently. Those members participating included Brian Gandy, Jayson Waterman, Doug Brown, Eric Summerfield, and Darrell Breedlove. The last few acres will be finished soon, and ISAF will receive payment for the work. Thanks to all who have participated in this somewhat long drawn out project. Mother Nature was not very cooperative in getting this finished, but ISAF has finally gotten the upper hand!

DEER RULE CHANGES

As was discussed at the ISAF meeting, there are changes to the deer hunting rules being considered by the Natural Resources Commission. The changes are up for public comment and foresters are encouraged to submit their comments. The prior recommendations resulted in 3,000 comments received, most from hunters interested in status quo.

Here is information on the deer rule changes:

HELP THE AMERICAN ELM

American elm (Ulmus americana) trees used to be dominant in many areas now dominated by ash trees before elm populations were reduced by Dutch elm disease (DED). DED-tolerant American elm trees could be a good planting option for areas where ash is currently being impacted by emerald ash borer. We have a small plantation of elms in various stages of testing for DED tolerance. Several genotypes have been shown to tolerate DED, and a large portion of the progeny from crosses among these trees are DED-tolerant as well. We are currently testing the potential of seedlings from DED-tolerant crosses to be used for restoration plantings. It is our hope that large, stately American elm trees will someday grace our floodplain and swamp forests once again.

We need more DED-tolerant genotypes of American elm to use as parent trees for our plantation in order to have enough genetic diversity to use it as a seed orchard for large-scale plantings. We are looking for healthy American elm trees larger than 24 inches DBH (diameter at breast height) that are growing in areas that have had DED and that have not been treated with fungicides to prevent DED. If you see a survivor elm that fits this description, please enter its location and DBH at our website:

http://nrs.fs.fed.us/disturbance/invasive\_species/ded/survivor\_elms/

We will compile these entries in a database, prioritize the elms for sampling, contact land owners, and then collect small branches from the trees to propagate and test them for DED-tolerance. Please forward to anyone who knows how to identify elm trees and might have interest in this project. Thank you for your help!

MARKETING FORESTRY

Marketing forestry to the public is a role every members of the society should embrace. ISAF at its winter meeting discussed who will be the next generation of professional forester. To help the membership, ISAF developed a brochure that explains careers in forestry for high school students. They are available to member to distribute to local high schools, youth organizations, and anyone interested in becoming a forester.

The Communications committee also developed a small display that promotes the role of professional foresters for the private woodland owner. This tail gate size display is designed to be utilized for field days. A brochure was developed that discusses the importance a professional forester will provide in management decision.

ISAF will be reprinting our Trees of Indiana bandanna and have them available to the membership. The cost is $3.25 each. They are an excellent gift, perhaps to a future forester and business card for ISAF since they include our web page address.

If you are interested in any of these items, please contact me at hussl@bloomington.in.gov.

Marion County Ordinance by Mike Saunders—Have been working on the ordinance but it is about as bad as it was before. Was put in place to balance development and protect the remaining forests in the county. Residents are exempt in forest is in Classified Forest Program or at least 3 acres. Lindsey Purcell is guiding the group. Send any concerns to him.

By-law revision by Brian Gandy—If ISAF decides to start voting electronically. Will need to revise by-laws. ISAF will no longer need a Teller with electronic voting. It has not been formally approved yet.

Wooden nickels and bandannas by Teena Ligman—The bandannas are gone. Both items were a huge hit at National FFA Convention and several other events. We are now out of bandannas. Still have plenty of nickels. Would like to print at least 1000 more. Are $3/ea. Still have money from last year to spend. Mike Saunders motioned to spend up to $7500 as long as there is a significant price break (3000 bandannas). Second by Dale Weigel. Motion approved. Also discussed putting an order form on website.
